

Namibia Education Projects

“Namibia”, the name alone evokes images of vast desert plains, uninhabited landscapes and mountainous sand dunes; it is a vast and impressive country that holds some of Africa’s most spectacular scenery and sustains some of its most recognised wildlife.

Education is a high priority for Namibia, but with such a low population, the southern region rarely receives assistance. Schools Worldwide has spent time developing links with isolated school communities where teams have the opportunity to enhance their education resources.

Working to build recreation facilities, upgrading classrooms and develop a cultural exchange, our rural school projects can last anything between 5 and 10 days before groups embark on an exploration of the country, through trekking or safari’s.

Our Namibia projects are designed to highlight our ethos of “Education by Experience”; providing groups with a sense of achievement, personal development and a better understanding of the diverse world in which we live and the different daily lives that exist all over our world.
